ENGLISH CURRICULUM PLAN

Subject	English	Year group	Y10 (P2)
Course	English Language GCSE and English Literature GCSE	Exam Board	AQA
Subject Intent	In Pathway 2 at Key Stage 4, students will prepare for both the GCSEs in English Literature and English Language. Building from Key Stage 3, students continue to appreciate a variety of texts written in a range of forms (novel, modern and Shakespeare plays and poems), strengthening their critical reading skills, as well as developing a deeper awareness of the literary canon, both recalling formerly learnt – and accumulating new – subject-specific terminology to support their interpretations and analyses. At KS4, pupils will engage with more complex contextual elements that they have encountered in Year 9 and grow in confidence when analysing authorial influences and intentions. Students discover more about repressed Victorian London as they explore how Dickens was inspired to write 'A Christmas Carol'. Alongside their study of 19th century literature, students bring together their previous knowledge of tragedy in Shakespeare's Macbeth, as well as studying a range of both classic and modern Power and Conflict Poetry. This poetry unit also covers an aspect of the National Curriculum requirement for Citizenship: Diverse national, regional, religious and ethnic identities in the United Kingdom and the need for mutual respect and understanding. We begin the year with the play 'An Inspector Calls' as well as interleaving creative writing and reading skills. Throughout the course, students engage with both fiction and non-fiction texts with a critical eye as we study English Language, before using those skills to craft impressive examples of creative and transactional writing themselves.

Whilst revisiting familiar big ideas and concepts such as traditional forms of masculinity and femininity studied as part of the Gothic Fiction unit in Y9, they will engage with wider and more intricate themes regarding social class and power. With this modern drama, students will be exposed to texts offering more overt polemical sentiments, as well as continue developing their ability to recognise the more subtle nuances and patterns (to which they have already been exposed) that weave together the strands of literature. Building towards... Students' knowledge and understanding of modern dramatic conventions means they have an excellent foundation for their study of Macbeth at the start of Y11 which demands a greater level of vocabulary understanding. Themes of gender and power structures in society equip pupils for big ideas that endure and reoccur in other texts studied on the syllabus. Their critical essay writing for this element of the syllabus will mean they are preparing for the demands of all texts in the course.

Knowledge and understanding of themes of family, loyalty, redemption and social responsibility that exist here prepare pupils for understanding of these big ideas before they move on to study Shakespeare. This means pupils are able to weave together how these important themes endure, yet change and evolve over time and in different contexts when they encounter new texts from different time periods, such as Macbeth and An Inspector Calls.

Poetic terms and devices are explored in both Y8 and Y9 looking at the poetic techniques in modern and C19th classic poetry on the theme of London. Building towards... Students will have an in-depth knowledge and understanding of 15 key poems in the anthology Power and Conflict, be able to demonstrate an ability to explain the poets' methods and be able to compare the ideas and methods used. These skills will then also be applied to the unseen poetry component of The Literature Paper 2 (section C). The

Writers' techniques of language and structure are explored through a range of texts from the C19th, C20th and C21st to inform and inspire creative writing.
